Final Conference Announcement

Welcome to WICEAT

In the European Year of Disabled People, the Organising Committee of the Wales International Conference on Electronic Assistive Technology invites you to WICEAT 2003. The conference will provide a forum for exchange of information about new and current; techniques, technologies, developments and service strategies in the field of Electronic Assistive Technology, for the benefit of disabled people.

The two day conference is to be held at the prestigious St. David's Hotel & Spa, located in the new Cardiff Waterfront and Bay area, and will include a plenary session, parallel platform scientific/clinical sessions, poster sessions, interactive computer sessions, product sessions, workshops, a trade exhibition and of course, entertainment.

Most aspects of electronic assistive technology are covered (please see reverse for schedule of events or visit the conference website on: <http://www.wiceat.org>), with guest presentations from several world leading professionals. The opening address will be made by Mr. John Griffiths AM, Deputy Minister for Health, whilst the Keynote address will be provided by Professor Heinz Wolff, Brunel Institute of Bioengineering.

We suggest that you do not miss this event if:

- a) You use, recommend or provide AAC, environmental controls, powered wheelchairs, powered prosthetics, specialist computers or software or any other electrical or electronic device aimed at reducing the effect of disability.
- b) You are researching the impact of technology on disability.
- c) You are involved in the referral to, the delivery of, or the commissioning of, services that assess for, or provide this technology.
- d) You manufacture or distribute Electronic Assistive Technology.
- e) You wish to learn more about the clinical application of EAT.
